

February 15, 2010

Title: Winds of Change

Abstract:

What natural intelligence lives in ecological and embodied dreaming experiences and is available for the transformation of our everyday lives, nature and culture? A dreamer articulates her relationship with unexpected change, when the world as she knows it falls apart, and she is transformed through both crisis and lysis. At the heart of her initiatory tale resides a series of sleeping and waking life dreams named “Winds of Change” which the dreamer is actively tending with curiosity. This dialogical relationship with imaginal and material world realities, established five years ago, continues to offer wisdom about the commitment to presence and the crucial role of the body in addressing and embracing unexpected change. This is an unfolding story of transition – mediating the tension of opposing feeling states, yearning to be oriented toward a vision of well-being, and connecting with the enlivening wellsprings of creative imagination.

Presenter Biography:

Dianne Juhl, M.A., is the founder/CEO of The Feminine Face of Money®, and a PhD candidate in depth psychology at Pacifica Graduate Institute. As a practicing consultant, she advises women dealing with their money emotions, bringing experience and wisdom gained through extensive training and her own personal money journey.

The Feminine Face of Money (FFOM®), headquartered on Bainbridge Island, offers practical tools and skills for women to dissolve emotional roadblocks and attain their life's dream or to navigate life's transitions and thrive. FFOM takes a unique holistic approach integrating “mind, body, spirit, and creativity” to develop new relationships with money. Flexible programs include private consultations, interactive roundtables, and in-depth weekend seminars to fit a range of learning styles and budgets.

To learn more, contact Dianne at dianne@femininefaceofmoney.com (206.850.2261) or visit www.femininefaceofmoney.com.